

Dear readers,

We are pleased that you are interested in the CARMEN Annual Meeting, 12-13 September 2014. The Centre for Environmental History and Policy at the University of Stirling has generously offered to host this year's Annual Meeting. The venue will be held on the ground floor of Forth Valley College. This huge open space has superb views, see http://www.forthvalley.ac.uk/about/investing_in_your_future/stirling

About the Market Place

The Market Place is designed to offer an informal environment where scholars can exchange information and make contact with like-minded projects or partners. Stall-holders can present their own research or that of their home institution. The initial links made here might eventually lead to people finding partners so that they can organize an international collaborative research project that has better chances of getting funded. Of course the Market Place also offers an opportunity to exchange information. If you are interested in presenting your research / project (powerpoint presentation, folders, poster presentation, etc.) please contact Jitske Jasperse (t.g.jasperse@uva.nl). The deadline for proposals is 15 August 2013.

Location and equipment

The market will be held on Saturday 13 September on the ground floor of Forth Valley College, probably between 11:45 and 13:00. There you can display posters, books, leaflets, etc. The room is about 60m long and the posters can be attached to the windows and doors using whitetack. There are also about 10 A1 size stands that can be utilised. Information on exact times will follow.

This year's theme: Heritage

Scotland and heritage are intertwined. Scottish monuments and landscape are preserved and promoted by Historic Scotland, an executive agency of the Scottish Government. Yet heritage is more than meets the eye. It can also be about (medieval) memory and identity and about appropriating and manufacturing the Middle Ages. Themes such as migration, knowledge, space and colour can also be included. We welcome stall-holders who want to present research, projects, books etc. related to the topic of heritage, but this is certainly not mandatory.

Please feel free to circulate this announcement and do contact me when you have questions.

Best wishes,

Jitske Jasperse
